Your home is an extension of your identity

Congratulations. If you're reading this, it means that you've gotten a new home and are looking for inspiration or an interior designer to bring your inspiration to life. Whatever it is, you've come to the right place, figuratively speaking.

IDentity is a showcase of the work done by Singapore's leading and upcoming interior design teams where you can get ideas for designing your own home, check out the latest interior design trends and get a sense of the teams' fit with you.

Not all designers are created equal. Like all of us, each designer has his or her own unique personal tastes, quirks and styles. However, all the interior designers featured in here have something in common. They were specially hand-picked based on their impressive track record of successful home projects and dedication to designing homes that are an extension of their clients' identity.

It is our hope that this magazine will help you design a home that really points to your own uniqueness as an individual.

About the company

Aamer Architects was founded in 1994 by UK-trained Aamer Taher who saw an opportunity to bring a different approach to design and architecture in the Singapore landscape, based upon his belief that space is both physical and psychological, and that a well-designed space can expand one's mental space and perception and has the power to improve one's well-being. 25 years on, Aamer remains responsible for all designs produced by his team and prides himself on the fact that they never repeat their designs so that every client is assured of receiving a tailored, unique design based on their needs and values, and is the best possible solution for the space they inhabit. Aamer's commitment to his art and his clients have won him numerous accolades, with the most recent being lauded as the Best Luxury Architect and Interior Design Studio in Singapore at the Luxury Life Style Awards 2020.

PROJECT SHOWCASE

Property type

New 5-bedroom bungalow at Frankel Drive

Budget	Renovation duration	Design style
$3,000,000	18 months	Tropical, Contemporary

About the clients

The clients are a married couple, with 2 kids and living with their parents. They wanted a home to accommodate their large, multi-generational family with each family member having their own personal space, but with common space for the family to also get together.

01

02

03

01

The angular overhangs, balconies and protruded walls, whilst giving a sculptural quality to the form actually provides shade and shelter from the elements, reducing dramatically the ambient heat internally and giving ample natural light and ventilation to the indoor spaces.

02

The form is a sculptural derivation of the client's brief to have every room fully en-suite including balconies and planters. The direction of each bedroom unit, seemingly popping out of the main structure, is angled towards the views with different overhangs providing shade from the sun.

03

The living room boasts clean lines, expansive windows, an undeniable sleekness and an enviable view of the pool.

04
This stunning dining room features a reclaimed wood kitchen island, an eye catching modern chandelier and a stunning mirror to tie the whole look together.

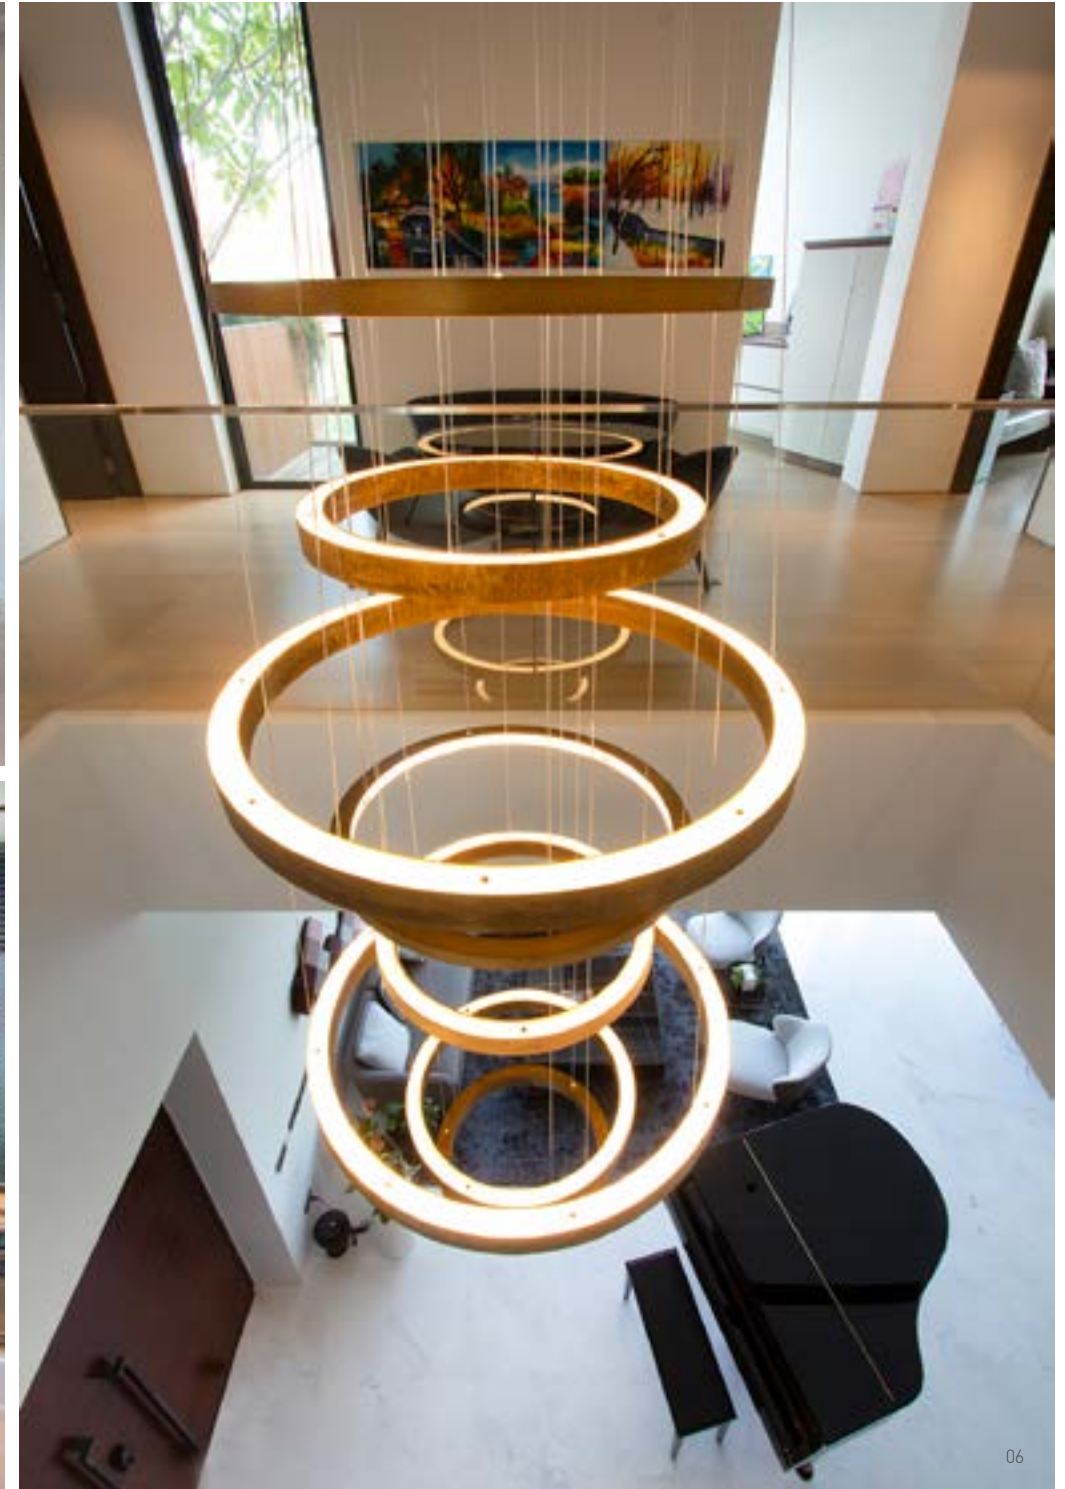

05
The bathroom is kept clean and classic with a stylish vanity with mirror and dark-stained cabinetry. Glass is used to maximum effect to add transparency to the design and the marble tiled floor adds a hint of extra elegance.

06
A spiral or waterfall chandelier is well suited to spaces with high ceilings and hangs perfectly to provide ambience to any party.

PROJECT SHOWCASE

Property type
Resale 3-bedroom maisonette at Bedok Reservoir Road

Budget	Renovation duration	Design style
$110,000	6 weeks	Modern Victorian

About the clients

The clients are married with a grown-up daughter and wanted a Modern Victorian home with lots of storage.

01

02

03

01
The streamlined design of the frameless stairway is perfect for any modern or contemporary home, and is the focal point in the home's entrance, adding to the home's overall upscale look.

02
This Victorian design living room achieves sophistication and richness through a white theme with jewel toned furnishings. The carved wall trimmings give the room a sophisticated and old-world look, while the chandelier is a touch of style and opulence.

03
The floor-to-ceiling mirror doors make the entire space more elegant, blending in perfectly with the white backdrop and dark flooring of the apartment. They have also concealed a secret study room (see image 05), adding a 'wow factor' to an already impressive home.

04

This lovely kitchen feels very modern with the use of solid-coloured laminates, but incorporates some Victorian era elements such as the elaborate moulding on the cabinetry and copper knobs.

05

The designer makes the most of the wall in the study room with a long, custom bookcase with lots of storage cubbies for books, desk accessories as well as a few decorations.

06

Intricate frames with ornate details really evoke the elaborate feel of Victorian style. For the bedroom, an ornate headboard is paired with a soft muted colour palette to create a lavish yet cosy space.

Modern Japanese Zen

About the clients

The clients are a married couple with 2 kids who wanted a clean, comfortable home in a natural colour palette.

01

The Japanese often design open-plan living space just like this with a compact kitchen and dining room.

02

The furniture is super simple furniture and with clean lines, and is kept to the essential pieces to allow free movement in the space.

03

A custom-made Shoji screen is not only ideal for a Japanese-inspired home, but also aids ventilation and brings light into the rest of the home.

04

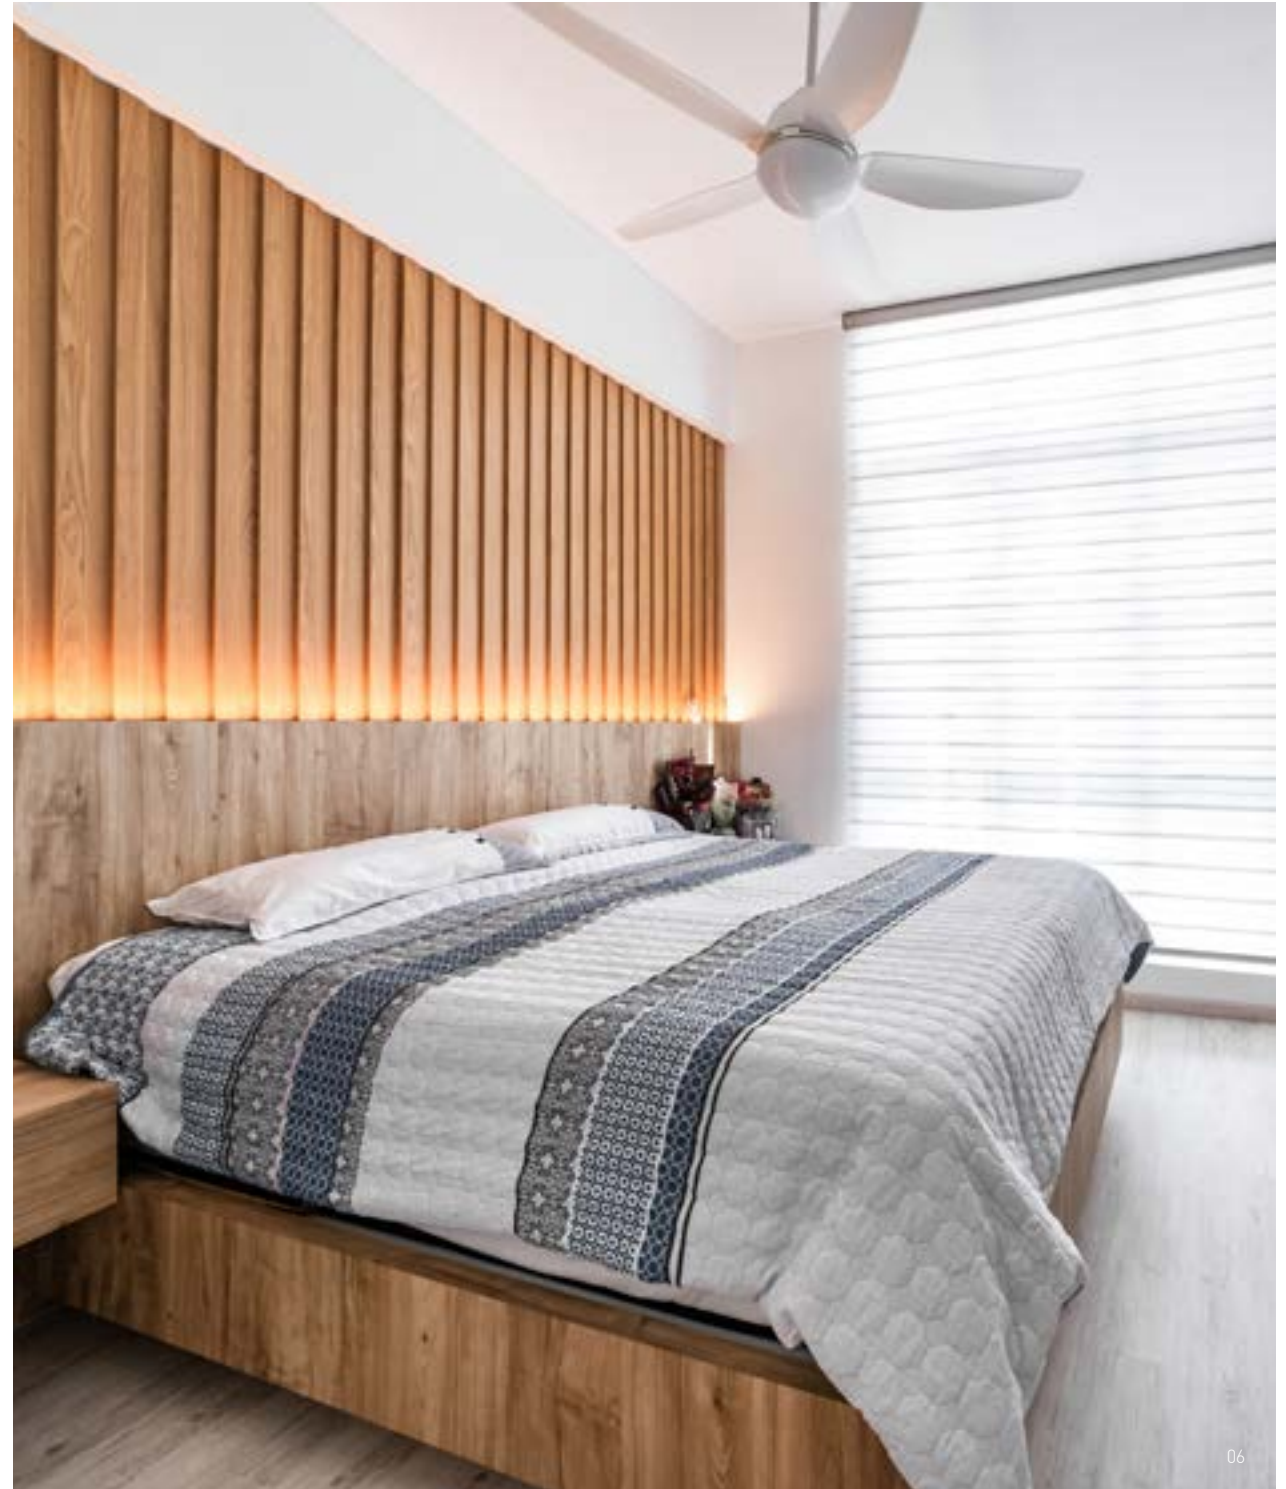

04
Low-to-the-ground furniture is a good way of adding a touch of Zen.

05
The use of clear glass, a natural reflective surface creates an airy ambience with natural lighting.

It is a HDB certified contractor and its team of experienced and friendly sales and design consultants believe that a design must have a vision, be visually appealing and personalised.

01

02

03

01

The entryway looks spacious thanks to the artful use of a floor-to-ceiling mirror.

02

A custom-built bench settee accommodates a 1.6-metre long dining table large enough for the entire family to have their meals together in comfort.

03

Thanks to the muted greys of the marble-textured flooring, the skilful placement of cove lighting and recessed spotlights and the use of glass to separate the kitchen from the living room, the apartment gives the impression of calm, understated luxury.

04
The long, continuous countertop, spanning the entire length of the kitchen provides ample space for food preparation.

05
In-built capentry works help to maximise every inch of space.

06
The master bedroom is a vision of contemporary, understated elegance with its floating headboard and beside cabinets and a wall-mounted flat-screen TV opposite the bed (just like in a hotel room).

07
The bedroom is kept immaculate and its space maximised thanks to a L-shaped walk-in wardrobe built flushed into the walls on either side.

03

01

A tidy entryway is achieved with the clever positioning of the divider that zones a little foyer providing storage for shoes, seating and display of little knick knacks.

02

With storage compartments built into the pale wooden walls, and a sleek TV feature wall, the apartment feels spacious and airy.

03

Clean, sharp edges give this galley kitchen that crisp modern look, common in contemporary kitchens.

04
The use of transparent sliding doors to separate the walk-in wardrobe not only allows for seamless access to the clients' clothes, but provides a truly contemporary feel.

05
Ladies will appreciate the thoughtfulness of this dressing table. It is cleverly located beside a window to allow natural light to filter in, has ample and easy to access storage for make-up and vanity items, and is stylish to boot!

Modern Victorian

About the clients

The clients are parents to a young child, and wanted a home with plenty of storage and a Modern, Victorian feel.

01

A light and neutral colour palette with the artful placement of cove lights and a built-in TV keep the room fresh.

02

Stylish wainscoting and a mix of chairs with feminine curves and a contemporary table add a modern touch.

03

The designer adopted a modern, galley style kitchen with top and bottom hung, flat-panel cabinets and a solid surface countertop.

04

Take advantage of a small room's vertical space by incorporating a retractable bed into the design and utilising its wall space properly.

05

The designer curated a practical yet playful bedroom that would grow and transit with the clients' child. He started with a neutral, colour palette, made a statement on the ceiling with a mix of cove lights and a whimsical aeroplane light and plenty of built-in storage.

06

Modern Victorian décor has a lot of romantic touches. The key is to find balance and keep the space from looking too feminine such as in the use of a velvet headboard and soft, elegant fabrics for the curtains.

About the clients

The clients are married with young kids, and their elderly parents. Essentially, the brief was to design a home for a 3-generation family with both private and communal spaces.

01

02

01

The living room holds an all-star gray composition. A cosy yet modern sofa, a soft area rug and curtains are all smooth shades of gray. The wood panelled TV feature wall, and marbled TV console lift the scheme by its simplicity.

02

The rule in designing a minimalist home is to simply use decorative elements as accents and not overwhelm the space with a lot of things. In this dining room, the hanging pendant lights become a focal point and draws one's eye to the soaring ceiling.

Modern Farmhouse

About the clients

The clients are a married couple who wanted a modern, eclectic farmhouse home.

01

The elegant kitchen brings together a variety of farmhouse staples, the exposed beams and wood flooring are just a few elements that will not go out of style.

02

Dark wood floors, an antique table and dining light, add rural charm to this home.

03

The study room is kept contemporary with stormy blue-grey walls and a dark floor.

04

A double vanity sink, often called his and her sink provides ample private space for couples and partners.

05

All-white cabinets, counters, and ceilings contrast beautifully with this medium-brown herringbone pattern floor. It adds a traditional component to the otherwise modern bathroom and gives the space a new dynamic that strays from the all-white look.

06

Exposed wooden beams and the reclaimed wood bench give this bedroom a country feel.

Natural light from the floor-to-ceiling windows illuminates the airy and open living space. Walls were removed to add a touch of opulence and enlarge the space even further.

02

The dining room stands out with the use of the bold wall colour, lighting and décor.

03

The kitchen features an island unit with a wine fridge integrated into its side, making this the perfect spot for gatherings. The light colour scheme in the common spaces ensures a seamless look.

04

A lighter palette is used for the walls, backsplash, and countertops to add contrast and dimension to the black galley style kitchen.

05

A well-lit area is an absolute requisite for work or study.

Windows are important not just for daylight, but also for ventilation throughout the day.

Plus, it's always lovely to work with a view!

06

Light and dark elements are used together in the bathroom to create visual contrast, with the wet and dry areas sectioned, and ample built-in storage.

Budget
$680,000

Renovation duration
10-12 weeks

Design style
Resort Luxury

About the clients

The clients are living with their parents, who desired textured walls throughout the house to achieve a luxurious look.

01

The patio consists of a sun deck for simple poolside relaxation and a covered outdoor living space without getting too much sun.

02

Even the ceiling is not overlooked in this home. The stylised, metallic chandelier and the curvatures in the ceiling give the room both essential lighting and compelling visual interest.

03
Transforming the wall and ceiling with the same rock effect fiber panel adds character to the space.

04
The living room is deliberately kept simple with a TV feature wall consisting of two giant tiles cleverly and seamlessly put together.

05
The deep brown, rock effect feature wall is a bold yet sophisticated statement in the bedroom.

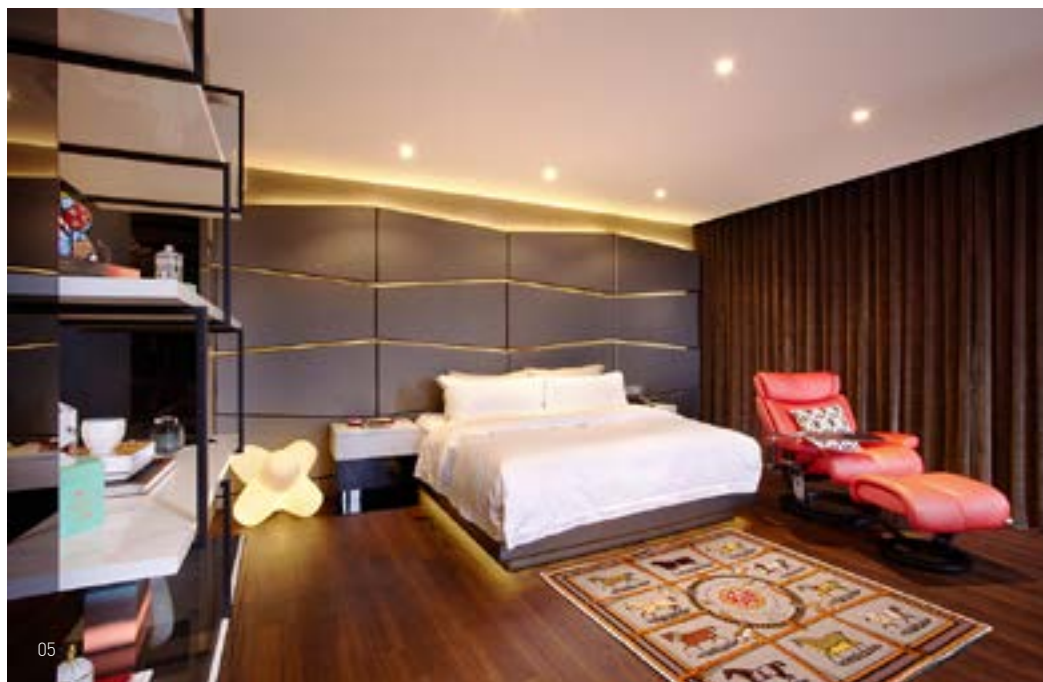

06
In the master bedroom, the designer did away with the typical bedroom layout, opting for a luxury-hotel-inspired style that divides the room into a sleep-live-TV zone.

About the company

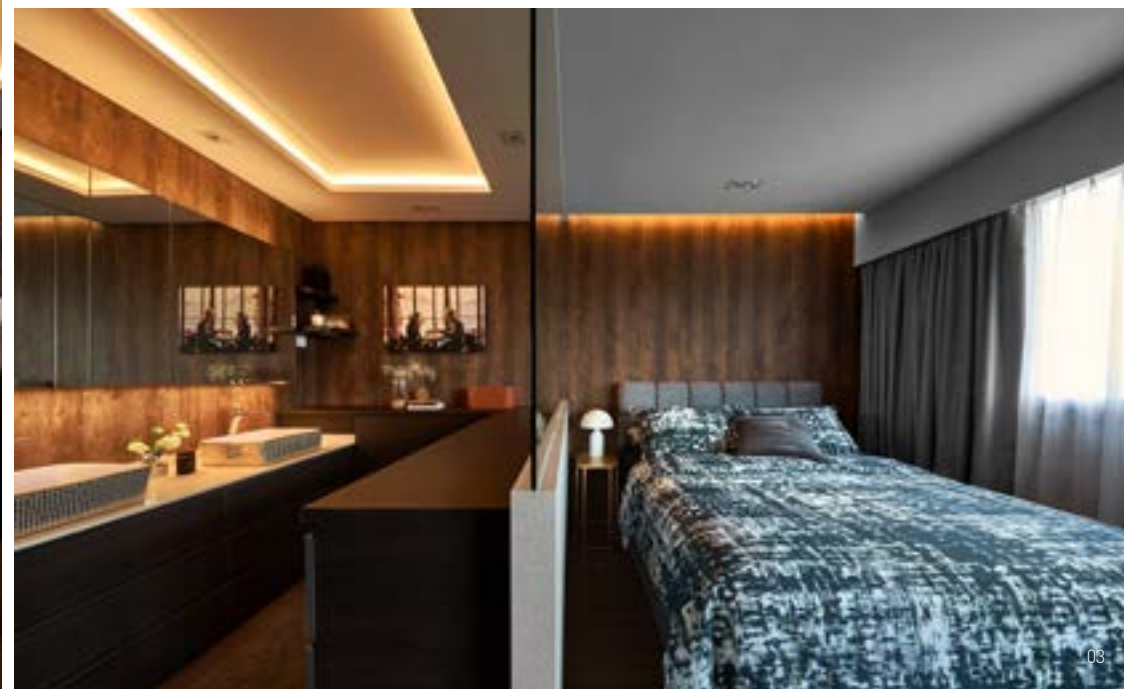

IdeasXchange believes in doing everything differently. It constantly challenges the status quo by designing homes unique to an individual's lifestyle and using the principles of efficient living and ergonomics to create optimum living spaces that fully utilise every possible space while saving time every day. Being Case Trust accredited and a HDB-licensed contractor, its team of 20 interior designers are single-mindedly focused on creating and delivering designs with its clients in mind.

01

02

03

01

Having two identical basin areas creates a harmonious, pleasing symmetry and a luxe, hotel-like vibe.

02

The wall between the master bedroom and the adjacent bedroom was torn down to create a spacious master suite, with its own walk-in wardrobe and ensuite bathroom for a touch of high-end glamour.

03

A glass partition wall allows for subtle privacy while making the most of natural light.

04

The shiny copper-tiled backsplash glams up the kitchen.

05

The designer used a neutral colour palette with layers of darker tones, while integrating a feature wall with a bold hue to give an elegant touch to the living room.

06

The kitchen cabinets are stretched out to the dining room to allow for more storage and to create a continuous, seamless look.

New BTO 5-room HDB flat at Tampines Greenview

Budget	Renovation duration	Design style
$80,000	8 weeks	Industrial/Minimalist

About the clients

The clients are a young, married couple with an active toddler and a new born. They wanted a modern Scandi-Industrial interior design using cement screed walls and floors with lots of storage to cater for the needs of a growing family.

02

01
Despite the cement screed feature wall, a warm ambience is created in the master bedroom with track and wall lights in wrought iron mounted atop natural-toned bedside tables.

02
A long black, custom-built wardrobe acts as a room divider to separate the master bathroom from the bedroom and to suit the homeowners' morning routine.

03
Wall tiles in dark earthy finish, a terrazzo counter-top, grey floor tiles, a black framed door and dark brown vanity cabinet work in unison to give this bathroom a 5-star look.

04
With fully cement screed walls and floors, this new flat has a tranquil setting fit for a home designed with 21st century sensibilities.

05
Greys, dark wood shades and black accents dominate giving this flat its unmistakable industrial interior.

06
The sleek look of this kitchen is made possible with all the smooth, reflective surfaces complementing the dark carpentry.

PROJECT SHOWCASE

Property type
Resale 2-bedroom Condo at Stevens Close

Budget	Renovation duration	Design style
$37,000	3 weeks	Scandinavian Minimalist

About the clients

The clients are a young, married couple with one child and wanted their home to showcase their extensive collection of Superhero and Japanese anime figurines and yet be child-friendly with minimal clutter.

01

The carpentry in the foyer is simple, with clean lines. The camouflaged storage keeps clutter at bay, and simultaneously interspersed with built-in pocket spaces within the cabinetry to display the clients' personal collection of figurines.

02

Due to the limited indoor communal space, the interior designer tapped on the balcony area, where the decked balcony space functions as an alfresco dining area that is perfect for a morning coffee.

02

03
As with all homes especially one with a child, storage is essential. The living room interior is lined with full-height storage and open-shelving so that the clients' can display their accessories while having sufficient storage for their belongings.

03

04
The bedroom is clad in a subdued palette with a discrete TV wall, and layered with textured details that further imbue the contemporary space with a sense of coziness. The faux-grass covered balcony acts as a safe play area for the clients' child and adds a touch of nature to the room.

04

05
The galley style kitchen ensures maximises the use of the space and keeps it child friendly.

About the clients

The clients are a three-generation family who desired a spacious and trendy home for everyone to live, love and play together all under the same roof.

01

02

01

The car porch is carefully designed to create privacy from the road and neighbours while cultivating a connection from the living space to nature.

02

The designer deliberately kept to a minimalist design and décor, and softened the look with the abundance of natural light coming in from the massive floor-to-ceiling windows and artful placement of indoor greenery.

03

While the look of this modern kitchen almost seems unfinished, the bare wood is a highlight of the bright space. The added focal point of the artificial carpet grass lend just enough finishing to complete the space.

04

The dining set and kitchen island boast the same airy element that helps to connect the disparate spaces together to create a larger, unified space.

05

A classic and neutral colour scheme works in a modern living room without skimping on the wow factor. Notice how the plush, brown leather seats and gorgeous greenery give a touch of luxe in this chic modern space in touch with the elements.

PROJECT SHOWCASE

Property type

Resale 4-bedroom condo penthouse at Sennett Residences

Budget
$130,000

Renovation duration
10 weeks

Design style
Contemporary Luxury

About the clients

The clients are married and despite having kids, wanted a sophisticated home in a light colour palette. As they had bought this penthouse for its large double volume space and its spectacular views, it was pivotal to them that the design allowed plenty of natural lighting.

02

01

The designer has cleverly covered the unsightly structural beam with marble-like laminates and used integrated details to hide the roller blind mechanisms for a luxe touch.

02

The custom window bar is the clients' favourite space in the entire unit. Simple yet elegant, it is the perfect place to savour a glass of wine while enjoying the sun set.

03
As the clients believe that a dining experience should be one of complete and focused bonding, the dining space is deliberately designed to be simple and uncluttered.

04
In order to create a sense of continuity, the designer put in a long marble feature wall behind the TV console and an artistically designed "L-shaped" bronze feature light above the kitchen. The resulting look helps to draw the eye upwards and enhances the height of the space.
